

You'll read an email posted to an online magazine. Complete the answers with a maximum of 2 words. There is an example (0) for you.

To the Department of Human Resources,

I am writing this letter to lodge a formal complaint against my boss, Mr. Gregory Smith. I feel that I have been given unfair treatment because of my gender. Although Mr. Smith has been nothing but nice to me, I feel that he passes me up for important tasks and always gives out more important duties to the men on my team.

At first, I thought I wasn't getting the same quality or amount of work as the rest of my co-workers because I was new to the team. However, once I felt I had proved myself to Mr. Smith, I expected him to consider me for the same types of jobs as the rest of the team. It wasn't until a new employee joined us—a less experienced, less educated, underperforming employee—that I started to worry about my situation.

I asked Mr. Smith if there was anything that I could improve upon, but he said my work was perfect. When asked if I could be considered for more important accounts, he said that I wasn't "ready yet." I have been an employee at this firm for over two years now. I always receive some of the highest employee evaluation marks in my department, but I still seem to be passed over for a number of key projects.

I would like to move up in this company, but I'm starting to feel like I'll never be promoted if I keep receiving this unfair treatment by my superior. I haven't been able to work these concerns out with Mr. Smith directly, so I would like to request that a mediator from HR intervene.

Please let me know if there's any other documentation I can provide.

Thank you,

Sarah Kim

0. Why is Ms Kim complaining?

Because she feels she's been _____ treated unfairly _____ .

1. Who does her boss give the more important tasks to?

He gives them to _____ in the team .

2. What does she say the new employee is like?

The new employee is _____ than her.

3. How did Mr Smith react when she told him about her dilemma?

He said he was _____ her work.

4. What is it that she doesn't understand?

She doesn't know why she can't get _____ clients.

5. How have they evaluated her performance at work so far?

Her work performance has been evaluated with the _____ .

6. What is she worried about?

She is worried about the chances of _____ .

7. Why does Ms Kim request a mediator to intervene?

Because she hasn't been able to _____ matters with her immediate boss.